ENEMY ATTACK ON YPRES LINE CUT TO PIECES

Serious Fighting Along Sector When Huns Press in on British Front

LOST GROUND REWIN

Yorkshires Thrust Into Battle at Critical Period

Turn the Scales

LONDON, Mar. 8.—Serious fighting has taken place along the front line in the Dismal sector of the British front, according to the British official communiqué issued by the War Office yesterday.

A German attack on a front of over a mile compelled some of the British troops to withdraw, but a counter-attack re-established the British line. The text of the order:

"Shortly before dawn today after a fierce struggle, the Germans delivered a strong local attack on a front of over a mile in the Dismal sector. On a greater part of this front their attack drove down under fire from British troops, who held their ground, but will continue to advance into Afghanistan if possible.

A Pekin dispatch dated February 27 said the government would meet with Persia probably within a month, and that an advance into Afghanistan would be possible.

"We have concluded another Tishit Treaty."

"We shall yet arise to victory as Germany, after Tishit, attained deliverance from Napoleon."

British were fighting later in the morning, and a second attack was made on the British line. It met with considerable success, with the result that the enemy's troops were driven back over a distance of yards beyond their former front line. During the day, however, positions were completely re-established. During the night, in the eastern region of the battle, the number of the enemy fighting were light."

THE FOOD OF LOVE

A Lyric of Meatless Days.

Eat to me only with thine eyes,
And I will mirth with mine;
With thine hands, my meaty sticks,
And I shall seem to dine;
With thine heart, my meaty bones;
For these are meaty, not bone;
Yet might I wolf a roasted ox,
And still be瘦 (thin).

Eat three times a juicy steak
To prove thy truth and see
If the old steel is dead;
And thou thereof one snif did take
Since when I wear it next my chest,
Potted, for love of thee. —Punch.

Pay as We Go.

Toronto's commissioner of finance is fighting a proposal that would cut back the tax rates on non-essential items to the amount of the money tax. The present, he says, is an unfavorable time to postpone settlements because of the high rates that have been paid while the example of the city has been able to stand heavier taxation than usual owing to the war influence upon earnings. The same argument can be repeated in respect of the school rates, which are shared among debtors, which Edmonton must deal with this year. To postpone payment means to pay higher interest, and both the acreage interest and the money tax would have to be paid at a time when we will probably be less able to pay than at present. There was never a time in the history of the world when more rapid progress was being done here than the time to pay every dollar that can be paid, and the way to do it is to pay as we go. You can't get like Toronto; Edmonton can "pay as goes"; if everybody in the city is called upon to pay his share.

Words Versus Works.

Hon. J. A. Calder is reported by the Toronto Globe as having addressed an audience in the city a few days ago to the following effect:

"This war has taught us to think differently and to act differently. The time for political juggling and promises are given, the people expect and give those promises to meet their needs. What they seek was for the principle of promotion. They accepted the decision of the board of conciliation that promotion should be based on seniority, and that they were to be selected by a chief selected not by the public but by the men who were loyally accepted by the men. On the fact of it that is not business, and cannot be accounted on any grounds, but the time when the underwriters association is in the hands of Edmonton's civic affairs. That is not the business of an underwriters' association."

The assertions of responsibility and reverence to reform are always to be received with hope and treated with respect. But it is expected of the men that they shall attempt that the public will accept their professions by amending their organization. No one will question the fitness of the members of the present Provincial Government, least of all the friends of Mr. Calder, to discuss the question of "police ingenuity" and the extent to which the public service may be demoralized thereby. But when Mr. Calder and his colleagues and their reputations landed them where they are now required to inquire whether they have implemented the reputation of the police in the practice of "tallying" in the count of their votes, it is clear that they are not doing it. And there you are!

It is worthy of note that in the two instances in which mention is made of large numbers of votes being thrown out, (Portage la Prairie, Manitoba; and Chambly-Vermont, Quebec) the Liberal who had the majority of the civilian votes remained unscathed. And what are known as the web voting presents as well that time as ever in Western Canada.

Citizens vs. Underwriters

Winnipeg fire underwriters take the view that the appointment of a chief from the members of the fire brigade tends to keep the brigade in an inefficient condition. Should that result, surely there is a demand for inquiry in directions other than the underwriters wish to think that there is no fishing expedition for the purpose of hunting up evidence to discredit the brigade—and to thereby pave the way for the re-apportionment of the rates. Mr. Davidson might not the official argue also try what he can produce as to the relations, if any, between Mr. Davidson, the city commissioners, the inspector general, the chief of the fire brigade, and the members thereof, as any communications or interviews between these parties or any of them in reference to a boost in insurance premiums, or the like, will demand the discharge of Mr. Davidson, and any exchanges that may have taken place in reference to the remarkable powers that are being given to the commissioners for the city's outstanding debtors in paper carrying a higher rate of interest.

Drop Non-Essentials.

The public school trustees have about reached the decision that the taxpayers cannot stand the expense of continuing to teach non-essential subjects in the schools. The school trustees have decided that many taxes were driven a long time ago, and the progress of events has proven its correctness. In fact the question is that is worrying the taxpayers now is not how to cut down the amount of the money tax, but how and where the money is to be got to meet the additional demands that will be made. The example of the city has been able to stand heavier taxation than usual owing to the war influence upon earnings. The same argument can be repeated in respect of the school rates, which are shared among debtors, which Edmonton must deal with this year. To postpone payment means to pay higher interest, and both the acreage interest and the money tax would have to be paid at a time when we will probably be less able to pay than at present. There was never a time in the history of the world when more rapid progress was being done here than the time to pay every dollar that can be paid, and the way to do it is to pay as we go. You can't get like Toronto; Edmonton can "pay as goes"; if everybody in the city is called upon to pay his share.

A Fishing Expedition?

One never can tell, when he goes fishing, where the pursuit will lead him, nor what he may bring back. It is well, therefore, to provide for eventualities, and to go prepared to deal with whatever sort of fish may be found. The insurance underwriters demand that the city shall organize a fishing expedition specifically for the protection of the public welfare in the conduct of the fire brigade. It is as well to recognize that the question is one of several which are raised by the recent developments in the fire department, and if the object is to find out why those developments took place it might well be investigated, though other questions also, particularly of an insurance agent, have a right to make an appeal to the tax payers. The tax payers, however, would seem to have an equally good right, to make the unwarranted increase of insurance rates the basis of a demand that they be examined.

The circumstance that the row over the fire brigade occurred just at a time when a series of most revolutionary amendments to the city charter were being considered by the legislature—with motions to inform the tax payers as to their purpose and effect—has not been lost sight of. It has been suggested in the streets that a spectacular "scrapping" between the conduct of the fire brigade was engineered by the commissioners in order to divert the attention of the public and the legislature. If one bit of gossip reported by the press is true, the demand investigation of the conduct of the fire brigade is submitted that this other bit of gossip is equally good ground upon which to demand an amendment to the charter.

Governments have been lecturing the public on the importance of industrial conditions, and must take place when "the boys come home." And warning all and sundry to make preparations for the reconstruction period on the most gigantic scale imaginable. Yet in this fourth year of the war the war only pretends at a plan for re-employment of soldiers in civilian life that Hon. W. W. Bishop, before the public is a scheme to herd the returned men off some into the wilderness. "I'm going to buy land that nobody else will try to occupy," he said, "and I'll go to live with them." It may be true. Mr. Calder says that we have come upon a time when pledges must be kept, and he is right, but nobody would suspect it from the conduct of the Hon. Jaques and his associates.

By increasing insurance rates to the demand of the insurance companies is known to be a great investment in prospective issues of securities, and in any prophecies others bearing a high rate of interest. By buying insurance, debts and demanding investigation the moment an efficient fire bri-

RAISING A CANADIAN ARMY

As a result of the activities of the Canadian Police officers in charge of enforcement, Major-General Sir George, about 300 men were apprehended over the past year, and 100 of these were sentenced to prison for various of considerable nature.

The most prominent of these was established to a settled and efficient condition. As between the views of the citizens, the safety of the public property is dependent upon the efficiency of the fire brigade, whose taxes provide for its upkeep and keep and pay the insurance premiums as well, and the views of the citizens as to the collection of insurance rates, surely those of the citizens are entitled to greatest consideration.

The underwriters' view is that the underwriters are inconsistent with discipline and efficiency.

The efficiency of the fire brigade following the departure of Mr. Davidson, when appointment was by promotion, disproves the position taken by the underwriters. The underwriters themselves are entitled to the satisfactory result of promotion; because it was while promotion prevailed that they reduced the Edmonton rates as an acknowledgment of the efficiency of the brigade.

The fire underwriters' association that could not see an unsettling and inefficient condition of the fire brigade when the Maryland hotel was burnt down with alarm?" the unsettled condition resulting from the re-instatement of the old and efficient brigade under a chief selected not by promotion, but by the men who were loyally accepted by the men. On the face of it that is not business, and cannot be accounted on any grounds, but the time when the underwriters association is in the hands of Edmonton's civic affairs. That is not the business of an underwriters' association.

The assertion that the fire chief has been appointed on qualification as to qualification is a reflection on the council which made the selection. At no time did the men ask or suggest that they were to be selected by seniority, as the setting of type by which the typewriter was looked upon as detrimental to the composition. But it grew in favor, and when the typewriter was brought to Winnipeg in opposition to the typewriter, it was a success. This machine was placed in the office of the workman's paper, and the typewriter was cast out of the stream flowing at other times, but it gradually grew in size, the meanwhile gaining in favor.

And when the typewriter was brought out on the market, when the Margenthaler was brought out, and the Rogers spacing bands were being used, the Margenthaler was being used.

What they seek was for the principle of promotion. They accepted the decision of the board of conciliation that promotion should be based on seniority, and that they were to be selected by a chief selected not by the public but by the men who were loyally accepted by the men. On the face of it that is not business, and cannot be accounted on any grounds, but the time when the underwriters association is in the hands of Edmonton's civic affairs. That is not the business of an underwriters' association.

The assertions of responsibility and reverence to reform are always to be received with hope and treated with respect. The Bulletin's Big Automobile
Prize Contest

Good for 100 Votes

FOR .....
ADDRESS .....

This Coupon, when neatly cut out and brought or mailed to the Contest Department of The Bulletin, will count for the person whose name is written thereon.

Special 50,000 Vote Offer Extended until Friday, Mar. 15th, with added inducement of $100 in Cash for the Candidates turning in the greatest Number of New Subscriptions.

At the request of a large number of the candidates in The Bulletin Prize Contest, the contest manager has decided to extend the special vote offer for another ten days. This is not usual, but a number of the candidates did not get a start until well on in the week. Consequently, they feel they have not had as fair a show as they would otherwise have had.

To encourage the candidates, the contest manager will give $50 in cash to the candidate turning in the greatest number of new subscriptions; $30 to the candidate turning in the second greatest number, and $20 to the candidate turning in the third greatest number by Friday, March 15. Can you earn $50 in one week easier?

The vote offer will not be increased—$50 extra votes for every $15 worth of new subscriptions turned in by March 15; 25,000 extra votes for every $15 worth of back subscriptions and renewals turned in by March 15.

This special offer is good until March 15 only. Make this your banner week. Let the end of the race take care of itself. Only a portion of the thousands of coupons sent in have been counted. We hope to have the balance counted in a few days.

HUGE NEW BRITISH GUN ON THE WEST FRONT

The war office has not stated how large is this mighty weapon of war, but they say it is the newest and biggest so far produced for war uses. It is here shown on the way to the Flanders front. The photograph indicates it is a rifle as long as most naval guns, and perhaps of larger caliber.

The Edmonton Bulletin Map Of the Battle Front in France

The Bulletin presents to its readers today the final section of a remarkably accurate map of the Battle Front in France. The other sections have appeared in the last three Saturday issues of The Bulletin. The complete map should be in every home for it gives an accurate representation of the western front. The map covers the entire battle line from the North Sea to the Swiss border. Everybody will need a map to follow the movements of the allied forces. Money cannot buy one better than that given FREE to readers of The Bulletin.

If a wall map is desired follow these instructions: Section 1—Do not trim. Section 2—Cut off upper margin on a straight line, close to the edge of the map, being careful not to mutilate the map. Section 3—Cut off the upper margin, also the margin to the left. Section 4—Cut off the margin. Then fit the sections together and fasten with paste applied to untrimmed margins. Before pasting be sure that the various lines on the map match evenly. The map is accurate and the sections when joined will fit exactly.
